Delaney Rogers is a bright and spunky seven year old who suffers from Polyarticular Juvenile Rheumatoid Arthritis. Delaney received her diagnosis in 2007, but has remained active. She is most proud of her skills in gymnastics, being her soccer team's goalie and being a part of a basketball team. Delaney can still do most of the things she has always done, but often gets tired and feels sore. Delaney shared that she, "feels really good, but doesn't like to take all of the medicine."

Helping Delaney get through the pain of arthritis are her supportive Mom and Dad, her sister, Sally Grace, and Daisy the family dog, and Max the family cat. Delaney loves music, art and science, and is involved with Daisy Scouts.

Delaney has been a part of the Arthritis Walk for the last three years and thinks, "it's really cool and fun when people learn about arthritis." Go Team Delaney!

The Arthritis Foundation is proud to have Delaney Rogers as the 2012 Arthritis Walk Honoree. We support Delaney and cheer her on for every step, every movement, every physical victory, every day!
